SOLARIS GAME CABINETS

Skill game machines that keep earning between visits.

Solaris Game Cabinets are RedPlum's one line of skill game cabinets: a 43-inch touchscreen in a cold-rolled steel body, with a curved, flat or J-panel display. Every cabinet runs all 24 RedPlum skill games and prints encrypted QR tickets that your kiosks pay out.

DISPLAY OPTIONS

Three screen shapes. One cabinet underneath.

Curved
The panel wraps toward the player. It suits front-of-house spots where the cabinet has to stand out.

Flat
A straight 43" panel with the slimmest profile. It lines up cleanly in a bank of machines.

J-Panel
The screen runs down and curves forward into the play deck, so the whole face is game.

INSIDE THE CABINET

Linux, encrypted

Root and home directories are encrypted, so games and settings can't be copied or tampered with.

All-USB peripherals

Printer, bill acceptor, IO board and touchscreen all use USB, so a part swap is quick.

Network optional

The cabinet and kiosk connect with or without a network, so poor signal doesn't stop payouts.

Updates online or by USB

Updates to titles you own are free*, even at locations with no internet.

"On request" means we'll give you that figure directly. *Free game updates apply to titles already purchased. New releases are priced separately.
